RUSH RETURNS WITH â€œCLOCKWORK ANGELSâ€•

CELEBRATED ROCK TRIOâ€™S FIRST STUDIO ALBUM IN FIVE YEARS SET TO ARRIVE ON JUNE 12TH

NEW SINGLE â€œHEADLONG FLIGHTâ€• LANDS AT ROCK RADIO ON APRIL 19TH

Rush has unveiled details of its highly anticipated, new album, â€œCLOCKWORK ANGELS.â€• This is the first new collection of original material in over five years and their first studio release via Anthem/Roadrunner records. â€œCLOCKWORK ANGELS,â€• the bandâ€™s 20th studio album, will be released on June 12th.

The recording of â€œCLOCKWORK ANGELSâ€• began in April 2010 with Grammy Award winning producer Nick Raskulinecz (Foo Fighters, Deftones) â€œ who also collaborated with the band on their last studio album, 2007â€™s â€œSNAKES & ARROWS.â€• Rush co-produced both records. The first two songs, â€œCaravanâ€• and â€œBU2B,â€• were completed during that first session at Nashvilleâ€™s Blackbird studios and performed nightly during the wildly successful Time Machine Tour, which ran from June 2010 to June 2011. Work on â€œCLOCKWORK ANGELSâ€• resumed in the fall of 2011 at Revolution Recording in Toronto after the tourâ€™s finale, with additional strings

(arranged by David Campbell) recorded at Hollywood's Ocean Way Studios earlier this year. Lyrically, "CLOCKWORK ANGELS" chronicles a young man's quest across a lavish and colorful world of steampunk and alchemy as he attempts to follow his dreams. The story features lost cities, pirates, anarchists, an exotic carnival, and a rigid Watchmaker who imposes precision on every aspect of daily life. The novelization of "CLOCKWORK ANGELS" is being written by science fiction writer Kevin J. Anderson in collaboration with Rush drummer and lyricist Neil Peart.

Rush will herald the release of "CLOCKWORK ANGELS" with a new single "Headlong Flight" landing at rock radio on April 19th. Details of a full-scale North American tour to support the new album will be announced shortly.
